America Fears the Demise of the Puppet Regimes in Muslim Countries and the Rise of the Khilafah (Caliphate)

(Translated)

America does not cease to express its fears of the demise of the puppet regimes in Muslim countries from time to time. This fear appears on the tongues of its leaders; its National Security Advisor Jake Sullivan confirms that it will work to strengthen Jordan, the Jewish (Zionist) entity, and Iraq so that the conflict in Syria does not move to them. A few days ago, its Secretary of State Antony Blinken stressed in his speech before the NATO Foreign Ministers Conference the necessity of preventing the return of the Khilafah State.

Anyone who follows the reality of Muslim countries realizes that the embers are still under the ashes. After the people revolted against their rulers in what was called the Arab Spring, and some countries got rid of their criminal rulers, the major countries, in cooperation with their agents, were able to contain those revolutions and replaced one agent with another. The conditions of the people in those countries did not change, but rather worsened from what they were before the revolutions. However, the embers remained under the ashes, and the people continued to look forward to the day when they would get rid of the agent regimes that ruled them without Allah's law, and establish the true Khilafah that would rule them with Islam. With the recent events in Syria, America could not hide its fears of a real change in Muslim countries, in which the people would rise up against their tyrannical rulers. Rather, fear filled the hearts of Muslim rulers as well, so the foreign ministers of Jordan, Iraq, Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Qatar, Turkey and Iran rushed to meet in Doha to announce that "the current crisis in Syria represents a dangerous development for regional and international security."

We confirm that these fears are real, and that what America and the major countries fear most is the establishment of the Khilafah Rashida (Rightly-Guided Caliphate). We confirm that the fear of the tyrants who rule the Muslims is real, and they are now scratching their heads after they saw America abandoning its agents against whom their people revolted, and it did not benefit them at all. Finally, we confirm that the Muslims will not rest, and their decision will not be settled until they get rid of their criminal, agent rulers, and establish the second Khilafah Rashida state on the method of the Prophethood, and get rid of the influence of the kafir colonizers in their countries, that will happen soon, Allah willing, and tomorrow is near for those who see it.
